

Internship Opportunities in Community Health and Well Being

The Community Health and Well Being (CHWB) Department serves as a bridge between the hospital system and the community to support resident wellbeing; to improve overall community health and to create equitable opportunities for all. The department has staff located in Hartford, Waterbury and Springfield.

The CHWB Internship is open to undergraduate, current, or recent graduate students working towards a Master' degree in Public, Health Care Administration, Management, Social Work, or other related degree(s). This internship will last between 8 to 16 weeks.

The Goal of Supporting Interns is Twofold:

- To provide a meaningful experience that highlights the importance of health equity.
- To support department activities by assigning interns tasks that increase the effectiveness of department activities.

Interns are assigned a mentor to monitor their experience and will serve to support, assist, contribute and collaborate on activities in the following categories: health equity initiatives, community outreach and engagement, administrative operations, and marketing.
